

POLICE RETRACT £20,000 REWARD TO FIND DAD'S KILLER

By Matthew Stanton

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE investigating the fatal shooting of a Tube worker from Tottenham have pulled a £20,000 reward for information.

The decision comes three years after the shooting of father-of-five Wayne Powell outside a gym in Higham Station Avenue, Chingford, on July 5, 2010.

Wayne's partner Anne Boriel was told by the Metropolitan Police Service that a cash reward leading to an arrest in connection with the 39-year-old's death, will not be renewed.

Anne, who had planned to marry Wayne this year, claims she has had "no communication" with officers investigating the shooting since December.

The mother-of-three, who met the London Underground employee in 1998, is now running her own appeals and wants witnesses to come forward.

She said: "The months following Wayne's death I had lots of contact with the investigating officers, but now that has all changed."

"Trident stopped investigating gun crimes in December, so my family liaison officer since the shooting has changed and now the cash reward has been pulled."

"I am doing all I can to keep the case public. I want to get justice for Wayne but I can't do it on my own."

Wayne, who worked as an operator at Seven Sisters Tube station, was shot four times while sitting in a black BMW after using a friend's gym at 11pm.

He died in The Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London, the following day.

The gunman, who calmly walked off along a footpath towards Coningsby Gardens following the shooting, has never been caught.

A Metropolitan Police Service spokesman confirmed the reward for the shooting was "no longer available" because of "cash shortages".

However, Detective Inspector Garry Moncrieff insists the case remains active and pleaded for information.

He told the Advertiser: "After three years we still believe that there is someone out there who can assist us in identifying Wayne's killer."

"If anyone comes forward with any information that will assist our investigation then we will make it as an absolute priority to safeguard that individual."

"Wayne's family deserve some degree of closure and we need to convict the person responsible for his murder."

Wayne's oldest child is getting married and will give birth to his first grandchild this year.

The DJ's youngest son, Wayne Cruz, two, never got to meet his father.

Relatives including his children Danielle, 23, Milan, 13, India, 10, and Angel, seven, have visited the site of the shooting every year to hand out leaflets.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the incident room on 020 8733 4704. To remain anonymous, call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Man charged with 1985 murder of PC

A MAN has been charged with the murder of PC Keith Blakelock during riots on the Broadwater Farm Estate in 1985.

Nicholas Jacobs, 44, from Hackney, was charged with the murder of the policeman on or before October 6, 1985. He is due to appear at Westminster Magistrates' Court today.

In 2010, after the case was reviewed, 14 men were arrested on suspicion of involvement in the 40-year-old officer's death and the attempted murder of PC Richard Coombes. They were interviewed and bailed to return.

In August 2011, nine were released without charge. Five had remained on police bail until this month. The remaining four have now been released without charge.

PC Blakelock was killed as he tried to protect firefighters tackling a supermarket blaze on the estate. Six people went on trial for his murder in 1987. Three men were convicted, but the verdicts were later quashed.

Woman breached her bail conditions

HARINGEY Police have issued an appeal to trace a woman wanted for breaching her bail conditions.

Laura Olsen, pictured, who has close links with Tottenham and Hackney, broke her licence conditions by failing to reside at an approved address.

The 34-year-old is white, 5ft 11in tall, of slim build and with blue eyes. She has tattoos on her arms and legs and both ears are pierced.

Anyone with information about Olsen's whereabouts should call PC Paul Gray on 020 7275 3058 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Witnesses to Duggan shooting sought

AN appeal has been launched to find potential witnesses to the fatal shooting of Mark Duggan in Tottenham two years ago.

The 29-year-old was shot dead in Ferry Lane on August 4, 2011, after the minicab in which he was travelling was stopped by police. His death sparked riots in Haringey which spread across the country.

An inquest into Mr Duggan's death will begin on September 16 of this year.

And ahead of that date, the inquest team has appealed for anyone who witnesses the incident or its immediate aftermath and who has not already made a statement to the Independent Police Complaints Commission to come forward as soon as possible.

Witnesses should call 020 7242 2648 or email enquiries.mdi@justice.gsi.gov.uk

Approval granted for 70-bed care home, with two others closing

PLANS for a new council-run care home for vulnerable elderly people in Enfield Wash have been approved.

At last Wednesday's full council meeting, all councillors voted in favour of the construction of a 70-bed care home at the site of the former Elizabeth House, in Old Road.

It will replace two homes currently run by the authority – Coppice Wood Lodge, in Grove Road, New Southgate, and Bridge House, in Forty Hill, Enfield.

The council says that the care homes currently fall below standards set by the Care Quality Commission, and that a new building will better meet the need for high-quality residential dementia and nursing care.

Don McGowan, the council's cabinet member for adult services, care and health, told the Advertiser: "Our current two care homes are many years old and no longer meet CQC building standards. "The appointment of specialists to design and build the new home and a qualified and experienced residential and nursing care provider chosen through competitive tender will ensure we get the right quality and price."

Elizabeth House was closed in March 2008 because it no longer met building standards. The authority already has permission to build a care home and the site has been cleared for redevelopment.

A spokeswoman for the council said that officers were expecting to sign a deal with a developer to build the home over the next few months, and that once a partner had been chosen a planning application for the design would be submitted.

She added that all residents from Bridge House and Coppice Wood Lodge will be moved into the new home once it is completed, if they wish to do so.

A decision on the current homes and the sites they occupy will be taken once the new home is completed.

Government backs by-law to stop people spitting in street

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

IT IS now against the law to spit in the borough after the government announced that it is backing a new by-law to outlaw the habit.

After two years of campaigning and lobbying by Enfield Council, on Friday Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government Eric Pickles gave councillors the go-ahead to introduce a by-law which would see people who spit in the street slapped with a fine.

If left unpaid, miscreants could be prosecuted or forced to fork out as much as £5,000.

Ushering in the new ban, Mr Pickles said: "In light of the cross-party support and backing of ruling and opposition groups, we are giving the go-ahead to new powers for Enfield Council to tackle these localised problems."

He added: "Spitting is a deeply antisocial and unpleasant practice. Spitting on Britain's streets is not socially acceptable."

The new law makes it an offence to spit in the street "without reasonable excuse", and does not cover spitting into a handkerchief or tissue.

Enfield Council is the first local authority to have successfully put a spitting ban on the statute books after Waltham Forest started issuing fixed penalty notices for spitting in February.

Cabinet member for the environment, Chris Bond, who has lead the vanguard against spitting in Enfield's streets, was ecstatic that the ban had finally been given the government thumbs-up.

"This is a victory for the people of Enfield who were overwhelmingly in favour of a ban on spitting in this borough," he said.

"It is an awful and disgusting habit and I'm delighted we can now get on with banning this filthy practice.

"I hope other local authorities will now follow suit.

"Our campaign has resonated with people all over the United Kingdom and we've had a number of other councils contact us and say they are considering a similar ban."

Life president of the Enfield Over 50s Forum Monty Meth, who collected 3,750 signatures on a petition calling for a crackdown on the habit, has also welcomed the official ban.

He said: "I am delighted that at long last Eric Pickles and his department have listened to what local people in Enfield have said and have given us the go ahead.

"We campaigned for it and thousands of people signed our petition to prove to the government that this is what the people of Enfield wanted.

"It is important that the council acts on this now and gets the message out to people."

Joanne Laban, shadow cabinet member for environment, added: "Spitting is unpleasant and it is right that the by-law has been given the go ahead by the Conservative-led government.

"This is an excellent example of cross-party working for the benefit of the community."

Kate wasn't the only person to have a baby on Monday, say proud mums

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

IT MAY be hard to believe, but the Duchess of Cambridge was not the only woman in labour on Monday.

A number of the borough's residents had their own bundles of joy decide to make their grand entrance into the world at the start of this week and under far less media apprehension.

The Advertiser met some of the new arrivals who share their birthday with the baby prince.

Kalyssa Phillip-Heslop was born at 12.21pm in the maternity department at Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, weighing 7lbs 7oz.

Her mother Aysha Phillips of Coppies Grove, Friern Barnet, had endured a stop-start labour over the last week before her second daughter was born a few days early by caesarean section.

Her partner Andrew Heslop was the "doting dad" at the birth.

Speaking about the royal baby, Ms Phillips said: "I was told Kate was in labour too – it's nice to know they plan to give a gift."

She was referring to the fact that the Royal Mint is giving away 2,013 commemorative silver coins to babies born on the same day as the Prince of Cambridge.

As thoughts turn to naming of the royal baby, Ms Phillips said: "I took the middle name of my seven-year-old daughter Kaienne, and her first initial together and got Kalyssa."

Midwives at Barnet and Chase Farm NHS Trust delivered 14 babies across the two hospitals on Monday.

Also making an arrival at Chase Farm Hospital was Loulia Seren Tshibo, who was born at 1.39pm, weighing 8lbs 4oz.

New arrivals: Kalyssa Phillip-Heslop with mum Aysha Phillips, left, and Loulia Seren Tshibo with mum Paula Jay, were both born at Chase Farm Hospital on Monday

Her mother Paula Jay, of Bowes Road, Enfield, was in labour for 79 hours.

She was helped through the birth by her mother Lesley, because her partner Jean-Paul Tshibaka was away on business in Europe.

"I actually thought I might give birth on the same day as Kate," she said.

"If I had a shorter delivery she would have been born on Saturday or Sunday. She just didn't want to be evicted."

ANNE-MADE SANDERSON

were very supportive and comforted me throughout. It's marvellous to share a birthday with the new royal baby.

"As an experienced mum my advice to Kate and William is to be prepared for lots of sleepless nights"

Mehtap Acres, from Edmonton, gave birth to a 7lbs boy at 10.37am. The baby was delivered by caesarean.

First-time mum Mehtap said: "It was a difficult labour but the midwives were great. They kept me and my husband informed all the way and finally there was a quick decision to go to theatre."

"But he's a lovely baby boy and I'm delighted he shares a birthday with a royal baby."

Also born by caesarean, Ashaiku Akhidenor appeared at 12.33pm. He weighed 7lbs 13oz and is proud mum Mildred's fifth child.

Ashaiku has two brothers and two sisters. His mum, of Enfield, said: "He's my beautiful baby boy. I am delighted with how it all went."

"I don't have a lot of advice for Kate and William. She is a good woman and will be a lovely, caring mum."

"But one thing I can say is be patient and caring and you will enjoy your baby and your life together."

North Middlesex University Hospital maternity ward sister Sandra Vaughan said: "It was a special royal day."

"Each birth is different and each baby is individual which makes every baby unique."

"The maternity ward was exceptionally busy on the day of the prince's birth. We wish all our babies born on July 22 a happy and healthy future."

Parents wishing to apply for a silver coin can do so at Facebook.com/theroyalmint

Seven babies born at North Middlesex University Hospital's maternity department share their birth date with a royal.

Leah Alexander Ogarro was born at 9.03am by caesarean section at the hospital in Sterling Way, Edmonton, weighing 6lbs 4oz.

She is the third child of Tracey Ogarro, from Haringey. Leah has a brother aged 12 and a 17-year-old sister.

Her mum said: "It was great. The midwives

Is it game, set and match for tennis courts due to cemetery expansion?

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

IN the wake of Andy Murray becoming the first British singles champion at Wimbledon for 36 years, a councillor is taking action to protect free tennis in the borough.

Enfield Town ward councillor Joanne Laban fears for the future of the Church Street tennis courts off the A10 in Edmonton, as she believes the pressure for new graves in next-door Edmonton Cemetery could see the sports facility torn up to make room for fresh plots.

"These are the only low-cost tennis courts in the area," said the Conservative councillor.

"These are cheap and accessible options compared to paying an annual fee to a private club. When I drive along the A10 and see people playing on the courts it gives such a good impression of the borough."

Ms Laban said that although the idea to expand the graveyard onto the site of the tennis courts was first put forward by her colleagues in the Conservative group when they controlled the council, she insisted they shelved the proposals as soon as they realised how unpopular the plan was.

The tennis courts are beside the Church Street skatepark which was raised at last Wednesday's meeting of the full council at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street.

Bush Hill Park ward councillor Denise Headley asked Bambos Charalambous, cabinet member for culture, leisure, youth and localism, if the skatepark was going to be closed down in order to extend the cemetery.

Hinting that a firm decision would be made about the future of both the skatepark and the tennis courts in the coming months he replied:

Not fair game: Councillor Joanne Laban opposes plans to extend Edmonton Cemetery on land where the Church Street tennis courts are currently located

"The viability of any cemetery extension will be considered in the autumn/winter, and if there is any displacement of the current skatepark the repositioning of a skatepark in a nearby suitable location will be done with full consultation of the users of the current facility."

A spokesman from Enfield Council confirmed the authority is considering the courts' future, adding: "No decision has yet been taken by the council."

"If the tennis courts are lost from this site, an alternative, more accessible site will be found to provide the same number, or more, courts to ensure there is no net loss of tennis facilities in the borough."

Shoppers join in for

Catch of the day: Connie Bromberg, four, fishing for plastic ducks at the Southgate Festival on Saturday

THE first-ever Southgate Festival went with a bang on Saturday with shoppers flooding the streets.

The event, which was organised by the Southgate Chamber of Trade and Enfield Business and Retailers' Association, included live music in Chase Side, Dennis Parade and Ashfield Parade.

Restaurants and businesses opened their doors, exhibiting their wares on the streets and children were provided with entertainment, including fishing for ducks outside the Underground station.

Secretary of the chamber of trade Emma Chapman, who owns gift shop Ruby Blu, in Chase Side, said: "It was fantastic, the streets were busy and people said they had gone in to shops they would not normally visit."

"People brought their relatives and others said they had never seen Southgate so busy."

The restaurants and cafes in Ashfield Parade reported they were heaving during the

some festival fun

festival which ran between 11am and 5pm.

The chamber of trade is now planning an event for Christmas time, and hopes to repeat its success with another summer festival next year.

Ms Chapman added: "The Obsession UK, a band of 14 to 18-year-olds were brilliant and we had some impromptu acts including a tap dancer."

"I would like to thank EBRA for all their support," she added. "The town centre managers came for the whole day, they came during their own time and so did David Burrowes MP and some of the councillors. We felt everyone got involved."

The Enfield Southgate MP added: "I would like to pay tribute to the energy and vitality of Southgate Chamber of Trade."

"It was a great day and brought the crowds and smile back to Southgate."

MP calls for new NHS cabinet minister post

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD North MP Nick de Bois has called for a new cabinet minister for public health to be created following the publication of a report on the future sustainability of the NHS.

At the annual general meeting of the All Parliamentary Group on Primary Care and Public Health, of which he is a co-chairman, Mr de Bois presented the results of a six-month inquiry into the long-term sustainability of the NHS, under the title Is Bevan's NHS Under Threat?

The report by the APPG – an unofficial interest group which aims to raise awareness of issues around primary care and public health in Parliament – warned the NHS could consume half of all public spending in the next 50 years as a result of an ageing and growing population, unhealthy lifestyles, the public's rising expectations and "improper use" of health services.

It said that many of the conditions for which people require expensive treatment on the NHS are entirely preventable, such as lung cancer caused by smoking, and diabetes or coronary heart disease resulting from an unhealthy diet and a lack of exercise.

Appeal: Nick de Bois

The report did not question the idea of a free NHS, funded through taxation and free at the point of clinical need.

But it said the notion of "clinical need" should be the subject of public debate.

In his speech to the group of health professionals gathered at Portcullis House in Westminster, central London, last Thursday, Mr de Bois said: "We need a national public debate about the future of the NHS and we need a public health cabinet minister to really get this debate on to the agenda."

"And the reason the government now may look positively on this, is because the financial circumstances are so pressing."

The APPG report recommended that future NHS savings should be invested back into the service as opposed to being returned to the Treasury, that more school nurses should be employed to educate children about looking after their health, the overprescribing of medicines should be tackled and that GP and pharmacy contracts should have a requirement to promote self-care and work on prevention built into them.

Mr de Bois added: "People need to move to a more engaged process of self-care, and need to make more use of cheaper primary care, rather than accessing hospitals when they don't need to."

The report has been sent to the government for consideration.

Councillors give new watchdog group a clean bill of health

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A SOCIAL enterprise has been given the green light by Enfield Council to act as the borough's new health watchdog.

At a full council meeting last Wednesday, councillors voted unanimously in favour of creating the Enfield Consumers of Care and Health Organisation – a community interest company which will form the legal basis for HealthWatch Enfield.

HealthWatch will be responsible for championing the rights of patients and families using NHS and private health-care services. It has an annual budget of £267,000 in grant funding from the Department of Health, and has replaced the Local Involvement Network. The new watchdog will operate alongside the Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group and also represent patients on the Enfield Health and Wellbeing Board.

As a result of the government's changes to the NHS as set out in the Health and Social Care Act, which came into force in April, local authorities are required to set up a legally constituted corporate body in the form of a community interest company to deliver the functions of the new health watchdogs.

Don McGowan, the council's cabinet member for adult services, care and health, said: "I expect Enfield's HealthWatch to work in partnership with the council and other local organisations to give residents and communities a stronger voice to influence and challenge how health and social care services are provided locally."

In March, Deborah Fowler was handed the role of independent chairwoman of the watchdog. Her previous experience includes seven years as chief executive of Age Concern Islington and three years as non-executive directors on the boards of a number of NHS organisations.

This was followed by the appointment of full-time chief executive Lorna Reith, a Labour councillor for the Tottenham Hale ward, in Haringey, and former chief executive of national charity the Disability Alliance.

Monty Meth, president of the Enfield Over 50s Forum, said: "I would welcome this development, it is now up to HealthWatch and the council to get the message out there and let people in Enfield know what they are here to do."

"They are already playing catch-up with other boroughs, who have had their watchdogs off the ground much quicker. We are behind and it must be all systems go now."

"Monitoring the quality of health care services is a big job and important job, and people need to know that they are here."

HealthWatch Enfield can be contacted on 020 8379 8119.

Children are the innocent victims

OUR children's education is the most important thing in the world to us. We pour money into private coaching and tell them that their future hangs on the results of a single exam.

And they place their trust in us to tell them the truth and to protect them from confusion, scandal and doubt at a time in their lives when school is the centre of your universe.

To achieve a high-level exam mark is something that should be shouted from the rooftops. To take this opportunity away from pupils without even telling them is a disgraceful way to betray their faith in a system that puts constant demands on them.

Parents are understandably loyal to the outstanding Eversley Primary School and we must remember the revelations that have emerged do not undermine any of the achievements of pupils or teachers at the school.

It is the people on a much higher pay scale who will have to answer for their failings.

Overhaul the Met

THE findings in a report by the IPCC which criticised the Metropolitan Police for failing to adequately deal with racism complaints should not come as a surprise.

To some people, the fact the Met received over 500 complaints over the course of a year seems a lot. Those who have experienced racism know the actual number of cases will be much higher, because there is a widespread sense among black and ethnic minority communities that complaining after a racist experience is pointless.

A complete cultural change is needed, alongside a radical overhaul of stop and search powers, which continue to disproportionately target black youths. And crucially, racism complaints should be handled by a truly independent, well-resourced body, that is able to adequately hold officers to account.

If you cannot afford to bring up kids then don't have them

Single mum: Naketta Wills has been hit hard by the benefits cap

I DO sympathise with Naketta Wills, but the situation she is now in can only be blamed on herself ("Pay rent and kids would have starved", Advertiser, July 17).

It is conceivable that her first child may have been a mistake, but to have another seven was foolish in the extreme.

To state that, "I didn't want to be a single mother - I'm not crazy, it's not an easy job", yet she carried on having babies, is unbelievable.

Didn't she ask anyone for advice, or should someone have mentioned to her how to limit the size of a family? Doctor? Midwife? Social services?

She is only 37 so could still have more babies. But in this day and age, no-one needs to have a large family.

No-one minds how many children a family has, but they must be able to care for themselves - not us taxpayers. The state has been keeping her and now it has to stop.

I am a strong believer that child benefit should be limited to three children.

Has she ever worked? And now she is waiting for a four-bedroom house. Not permanent but temporary as the older children are almost adults and could move out.

It appears that there is no role model in their lives as the state has provided for them.

I think that you were ill advised to have her dilemma on the front page and I hope that other readers also think that her dilemma is of her own making.

Iris Tanner
Address supplied

□ MAYBE Naketta Wills should be sterilised or use something to stop getting pregnant - in this day and age there are many things you can use.

How many more children will she have?

I worked most of my life and am now a retired widow who brought up two kids on my own as my husband died quite early. I never asked the government for money.

She said that she wants to work, but who is going to look after her kids while she is doing so?

And where are the men in her life to help with the children?

Naketta wants to get advice and help with her kids. And my advice to her is not to have any more children.

Objections to entertainment licences for parks

I WAS very concerned to learn about the poorly publicised entertainment licence application in respect of the Library Green, in Enfield Town.

I hope that this is not a covert attempt at a rerun of the Chase Green licensing farce.

On two previous occasions where very noisy concerts have taken place on Library Green, I have complained about the totally unacceptable volume of sound which has reached us in the garden of our bungalow in River View.

On one occasion someone from Enfield Council's noise abatement department visited the concert and insisted that the sound was reduced substantially.

Obviously there is no objection to innocuous events such as art displays etc, but once again, the council seems to be applying to itself for permission to cause distress to local residents for long periods of time.

We have the Town Park within 100 yards of the Library Green, so why not use the more remote areas of this park for such unwelcome and nefarious activities?

Geoffrey W Yates
River View, Enfield

□ IT HAS been brought to the attention of my neighbours and I via a notice placed on the gates of Oakwood Park, which is less than 50 metres from my front door, that Enfield Council is applying for an entertainment licence there.

Is it not a legal requirement to have a public consultation prior to applying for a change of use for a public space? Such a change of use would be detrimental to the area.

It would bring in unwanted traffic, illegal parking, indiscriminate disposal of rubbish, disruption due to alcohol use with probable fighting amongst people attending these types of events.

Our park is a place for family use, and has been used as such to a high degree by surrounding families and thoroughly enjoyed.

The park and our neighbourhood is not designed to cope with such events. It will be detrimental to property prices and every possible benefit we have of living in such a family orientated area.

We strongly object to such a change of use in planning.

Mr A Pattalis
Oakwood Park Road, Southgate

Talking is over

RE: Lesley McClymont's letter (Advertiser, July 17).

The residents in Chelmsford Road that accept the CPZ will end up not talking to each other as they fight for the spaces.

Mr McClymont must think ahead as there are many examples of this.

Mike Dehaan

RE: The fatal stabbing in Elmhurst Road (Advertiser, July 17).

I wonder if anybody knew that it was a halfway house?

Surely there should have been some kind of notification to us.

Thieves target revamped recreation ground

Perplexed: Friends group chairman Marc Ellul has questioned the thefts from the park

Park benches stolen

THIEVES have stolen flowers and picnic benches from a ground which had hundreds of thousands of pounds pumped in to it to create a family park last year.

A grant of £157,000 from Enfield Council's Residents Priority Fund was used to create a toddlers' play area at Weir Hall Recreation Ground last year.

But in recent weeks the park has been the victim of several thefts. Most recently, two picnic benches which were at the centre of the playground were taken.

The ground, which runs between the A10 and Weir Hall Road, in Edmonton, was also given funding to fill flower beds with roses, geraniums and a couple of yew trees, which have also been stolen.

Members of the friends group also raised £33,000 towards the revamp.

"It was just a recreation ground before - we had dumped cars and social problems," said Marc Ellul, chairman of the group.

"It's hugely important for the children. They had nothing before so getting the toddlers' playground was an important thing."

"The playground was planned around the two benches."

Mr Ellul added that the play equipment and flower beds had helped to reduce antisocial behaviour in the area.

Enfield Council has been helping secure to the park's remaining benches and has promised to replace the flowers.

Chris Bond, cabinet member for environment, said: "We assume that people are removing the benches and the flowers to decorate their gardens, but this will not be tolerated."

"It is disgusting that people come into public parks and steal items that are there for everyone to enjoy. It also costs money to replace these which must be funded from the public purse."

"I would urge anyone who may have information on these thefts to contact the police, and to be extra vigilant."

Met under fire over racism complaints

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A POLICE watchdog has slammed the Met for its handling of racism complaints made against officers in a highly critical report published last week.

Last Wednesday the Independent Police Complaints Commission published a review of referrals passed on to the IPCC by the Met during 2011/12. During that period there were 511 complaints made against Metropolitan police officers, 61 of which were referred to the IPCC.

During the 12 months, nine claims of race discrimination were made against officers in Enfield. On one occasion, a member of the public complained after hearing a police community support officer call two black men "chocolate s**t" during a heated altercation in the street. The officer was later sacked for gross misconduct. The IPCC report examined how 20 cases had been handled after they were passed back to local officers.

It found that racial discrimination was only tackled robustly where there was use of explicit racist language and claims were supported by independent evidence, that there was little understanding of covert racism, and that the quality of investigations into complaints was generally poor.

It also found that the quantity and quality of communication with complainants was lacking.

The IPCC recommended the Met focus on a programme of quality control of race complaints using some external expertise, promoting feedback at community level and using complaints to effect changes in policing policy and procedure.

But Ken Hinds, a youth worker in Edmonton and member of the Stop and Search Community Monitoring Network, a group of community representatives which monitors police tactics in each London borough, said that a "truly independent" body needed to be set up to deal with racism complaints against officers.

"People know their jailer is not going to become their saviour," he said. "If you go to the police station to complain about racism, officers will make you wait, discourage you and inconvenience you – the overwhelming majority of people in the black community don't even bother complaining because they know the police won't investigate properly."

"We need an independent and well-resourced body to which people can complain, equipped with the latest technology, not police investigating police."

The Met's Assistant Commissioner for Territorial Policing Simon Byrne, said: "We are determined to be less defensive and we therefore welcome the report and its findings."

"It is powerful, showing the way we deal with complaints involving racism is letting down the public."

"The progress made in reducing stop and search and making it more proportionate shows we can change, and I am determined we take those lessons forward in other areas such as complaint handling."

Judge to rule on Sony Centre arson dispute

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

LAWYERS representing the Metropolitan Police have tried to wriggle out of a multi-million pound compensation claim by arguing that the looting and arson of a building in Enfield Lock two years ago was the result of organised crime.

In what was said to be one of the biggest legal battles over the August 2011 riots, insurance firms for Sony, Mitsui Sumitomo and Tokio Marine Europe and the three DVD firms Clear Vision, Lace International and Asphyxiation Films, which had millions of pounds worth of stock stored at the Sony Distribution Centre, in Solar Way, Enfield Lock, which was destroyed by arson, took the Met to the High Court after the their claims for compensation were refused.

A four-day trial concluded earlier this month.

Under the Riot (Damages) Act 1886, police authorities are liable for damages caused to property during riots. To claim under the act, there must be evidence of more than 12 people being "riotously and tumultuously assembled".

Insurers for Sony are trying to recover £60million for loss of the building and earnings. The DVD firms are aiming to recover £1.9million in compensation for stock that was destroyed in the fire and an additional £3million for loss of earnings.

Up in smoke: The Sony Distribution Centre in Solar Way, Enfield Lock

But lawyers representing the Mayor's Office for Policing and Crime argued the fire was a result of organised crime, and that the companies would not be able to claim for loss of earnings under the act.

Sam Grodzinski QC told the court that the group of youths who looted and set fire to the building had taken advantage of police being occupied elsewhere and used petrol bombs "to cover-up forensic tracks".

He said: "This warehouse was not destroyed by an agitated, emotionally aroused crowd or mob of people. The individuals arrived at the warehouse under cover of darkness, taking care to hide their identities, and broke into the warehouse using force and a variety of implements."

However, Michael Crane QC, representing the claimants, retorted: "The coming together of this mob for the purpose of smashing its way into, looting and then fire-bombing the premises and their contents comfortably satisfies the statutory requirement of damage inflicted by persons riotously and tumultuously assembled."

"We say this was wanton violence, where there was an animus towards the property itself."

In May, the government announced a review of the act, which will examine the criteria for police compensation and could call for changes to the legal definition of a riot – a move which could see fewer payouts for riot victims.

Mr Justice Flaux is expected to rule on the matter in September.

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN.

Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist. # Primary school set to be rebuilt

Building for the future:
Garfield Primary School

By Koos Couvé

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

PLANS to demolish and rebuild a primary school in a bid to increase the number of primary school places in the borough were approved last Wednesday.

At a full council meeting, councillors unanimously voted in favour of rebuilding Garfield Primary School, in Springfield Road, New Southgate, which had initially been earmarked for a piecemeal expansion.

The council said the new proposals, which are still being designed, will overcome construction issues, as the school is built on a slope.

Meanwhile the school's expansion plans are still going ahead, and the 400-pupil primary is set to receive two temporary classrooms this summer, as it will go from two to three reception classes in September. Construction work on the new school buildings is likely to last for more than a year.

A council spokeswoman said: "The school's governing body have been very supportive of the council's proposal to expand the school, but had highlighted their concerns that the original plan for expansion would not solve the current difficulties in managing and teaching on the site due to the difference in levels.

"The complexities of the site and the need to schedule the school building expansion within the confines of the current build was creating delay and cost increase to the original plan."

In addition to the construction of new school buildings, the council's aim is to provide a multi-use games area that can also be used by the community outside of school hours.

Headteacher Karen Khwaja said: "We were having discussions with the council and decided that rebuilding the school was much the better option as the building is on different levels and it would have been very complicated.

"We have been consulting with parents last week, and we are having discussions with pupils about what they want from the new building, which we are feeding into meetings with the council's architect.

"We have been working very productively with the local authority and we are very excited about the new facilities, and being part of the wider regeneration of the area."

According to the council, the new buildings are expected to be ready for full use from early 2015 with the demolition and landscaping to be completed later that year.

Trio to cash in on government education fund

PUPILS at three of the borough's schools will benefit from a cash windfall after the government announced it would be pouring funding into expanding schools across the country.

Under the government initiative, three Edmonton schools – Oasis Academy Hadley, in South Street, Ponders End, Edmonton County School in Great Cambridge Road, Enfield, and Enfield Secondary Tuition Centre, in Eldon Road, Edmonton – will be given an extra lump sum to allow them to expand.

The pot of money is given to schools directly in the hope that they will be able to provide more places in areas where there is high demand.

The amount of money allocated and the number of places that will be created are still to be confirmed by the Department for Education which is currently in talks with the schools and the local authority.

Only schools rated as good or outstanding by Ofsted have been granted the money.

Andy Love, Labour MP for Edmonton, has congratulated the three schools for winning the grants after they applied for the money earlier in the year.

"I am delighted that this extra funding will make its way to these schools, allowing more pupils to attend – and to achieve a good education while they are there," he said.

"This additional funding will hopefully help remove some of the burden from those parents who have been worrying whether their child's school has enough funding to properly support the pupils."

Members of drug gang behind bars

By Koos Couvee

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN from Ponders End and a woman from New Southgate have been jailed alongside other members of a gang involved in selling class A drugs.

Spencer Okumankoma, 30, of Derby Road, Ponders End, and Penny Shartou, 29, of The Limes Avenue, New Southgate, were jailed alongside Tyrone Mansaram, 33, from Watford, Hertfordshire, Monsur Hussain, 23, from Tower Hamlets, east London, and two 17-year-old boys of different addresses in Tower Hamlets, at Wood Green Crown Court on Monday.

Okumankoma was jailed for seven years for conspiracy to supply cocaine and Shartou for a year and seven months for the same offence.

Mansaram was given a ten-year jail sentence for conspiracy to supply cocaine and attempted being concerned in supplying crack cocaine.

Hussain was jailed for two years and three months, also for the crack and crack cocaine offences, and both youths, who cannot be named for legal reasons, were sentenced to eight months and four months detention and training in a young offenders' institute respectively, for attempted being concerned in supplying crack cocaine.

The two youths, then aged 16, had been arrested with Mansaram in Edmonton as they attempted to exchange 111 grams of crack cocaine worth £11,000 on July 31, 2012.

Arrangements for the exchange had been made by Hussain, who was subsequently arrested at his home address in Tower Hamlets three days later.

Police carried out raids in August and September and when officers stormed the address at The Limes Avenue they caught Shartou, Mansaram and Okumankoma red-handed, while they were preparing drugs for sale.

The gang were convicted at Wood Green Crown Court in May.

Detective Inspector Rob Murray of the Met's Central Task Force said: "Our operation and these sentences have ensured that a large drugs supply chain has been shattered and that those involved have been removed from public life."

"This operation is also an example of the Met's utter commitment to dismantling criminal networks involved in drug trafficking in London."

All white now: Railings along Enfield Lock were given a fresh lick of paint by volunteers

River path back on track after clean-up

VOLUNTEERS helped to spruce up a section of Enfield Lock last week.

The Canal and River Trust appealed for volunteers to give a lick of paint to railings and furniture along the River Lee Navigation.

The initiative was part of the trust's Towpath Taskforce volunteering project, which encourages people to get their hands dirty in an effort to help protect some of London's most important industrial heritage and wildlife habitats.

Debbie Vidler, volunteer coordinator for the trust in London said: "One event a year can make a dent, but regular volunteer efforts will make a real difference to the thousands of people that use and visit them each week."

The taskforce provides volunteering opportunities for people who want to make a difference to their local waterway.

Other projects include clearing overgrown vegetation, cleaning up litter and graffiti, and helping wildlife by building nest and bat boxes and planting reed beds.

Cash and cocaine seized in night raid

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

POLICE pouncing on an organised drugs ring uncovered a multimillion-pound haul of cocaine and cash on Monday night.

In a pre-planned swoop on known drug dealers, police officers from the Met's Middle Market Drugs Partnership and an ANPR intercept team stopped a car on the North Circular Road they had seen involved in suspicious activity earlier in the evening.

After searching the silver BMW with the help of sniffer dogs, officers discovered seven blocks of cocaine concealed in a secret compartment.

One of the two occupants of the car had a key for a Mercedes parked in Ecclesbourne Close, Palmers Green.

And when officers searched that they found £50,000 stuffed in a bag in the boot of the car.

Two connected properties were searched and a hydraulic cocaine press and a money counting machine were discovered at an address in Linkside Gardens, Grange Park.

One of the three men in the Linkside Gardens address had the key to a Ford Focus. A large package of drugs, believed to be cannabis, was discovered inside that car.

Two more blocks of cocaine were discovered at a house in Jutland Road, Plaistow, east London.

The weight of the cocaine recovered is about 12 kilograms, estimated to be worth £2.7million.

Detective Inspector Steve Miles, who led the operation from the Met's Serious and Organised Crime Command, said: "There is no doubt we have uncovered a highly sophisticated crime network involved in the distribution of drugs and money laundering on a large scale.

"We will continue our efforts to disrupt similar networks to take drugs off the streets of London."

The two men in the silver BMW were arrested on suspicion of possession with intent to supply drugs, being concerned in the supply of drugs and money laundering.

The three men at the address in Linkside Gardens were arrested on suspicion of drugs trafficking offences.

At the time of going to print, all were in custody at an east London police station.

OPINION

Vicki Pite

Environment matters

We need to map out new initiatives in order to get on the road to recovery

I WAS shocked to discover that the Enfield Southgate stretch of the North Circular Road was recently named (and shamed) as one of our most polluted thoroughfares, with the highest concentrations in London of benzene, nitrogen dioxide and particulates, known carcinogens.

The data was published following three separate Freedom of Information requests to London Mayor Boris Johnson.

See how your area is affected at <http://www.howpollutedismyroad.org.uk/roads.php>

The cause is easily identifiable – too many vehicles, particularly diesel-powered, on the road.

Given the medical evidence about the noxious effects of air pollution from vehicle emissions, the need to act is indisputable. We must reduce our dependence on motor vehicles.

Firstly, thoughtful town planning can reduce the distances that people travel for work, leisure and shopping and can encourage local sourcing and deliveries of goods.

Secondly, the more people forsake their cars and use public transport (or cycle and walk), the better it is for the air we breathe, particularly if the introduction of environmentally friendly hybrid buses is accelerated to bring London in line with more enlightened modern cities.

Regulations, such as the Congestion Charge, can reduce the number of vehicles on our streets.

Health hazard: The North Circular

Thirdly, public transport must be made affordable. Since receiving my Freedom Pass I've been delighted by the ease with which I can travel around north London, and beyond, on public transport, but I remember how expensive buses and trains seemed before gaining my "Freedom".

This pass was a positive measure introduced by the Greater London Council but recent above-inflation rises in Transport for London fares are counter productive. Finally, low and ultra-low emission zones could be introduced more widely.

Changing habits is hard, but when people and politicians take a fresh look at travel requirements, they might discover new ways of doing things that are cheaper, enhance our quality of life and improve our health.

OPINION

Michael Lavender

Enfield Conservative group leader

Money talks and thanks to Boris the future is looking brighter already

RAIL services to Enfield Town and Enfield Lock are to be run by Boris Johnson and Transport for London. This is good news. If you look at the dramatic improvements to the mainline service to Enfield Town, Turkey Street and Enfield Lock and its enhanced trains, we would be grateful for half of that.

Boris has also obtained £500million from the government to support housing and transport infrastructure in the Upper Edmonton area.

The improvement of Angel Road station will regenerate Edmonton and Meridian Water. It is anticipated that four trains an hour will run from stations in the east of the borough to Stratford, only 18 minutes away. In addition, disabled access from the street at Edmonton Green station, a long overdue requirement, is to go ahead.

The improvements to the M25 (although painful while they are occurring) will ensure better traffic flows and some respite to the residents who live in and around Bullsmoor Lane, Turkey Street and Enfield Lock.

We understand the government has secured the purchase of the part of the Middlesex University site in Ponders End to deliver a new academy school there. This is in addition to the £18m grant given to the council for school provision.

On the right track: Boris Johnson

Again, great news.

New rules regarding the reduction of housing benefit for under occupation has released 252 valuable bed spaces in Enfield.

The cap on universal credit has enabled, with the assistance of Enfield Council and JobCentre Plus, 25 families to get back into work.

New government rules regarding housing finance has enabled councils such as Enfield to seek to demolish outdated tower blocks such as the Alma Estate, in Ponders End, and the Ladderswood Estate, in Southgate Green.

The sun is shining, so I thought an article with a positive message and outlook was appropriate. Enjoy the good weather.

Places remain at primary academy

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

PARENTS with children starting school this September have been reassured there are still reception places available in the borough's newest primary academy.

John Keats Primary Academy, run by the ARK academy chain, will open its doors to 60 reception-age children in the refurbished classrooms of Oasis Academy Hadley secondary school in Bell Lane, Enfield Wash.

According to a spokeswoman from the academy chain, the new primary will be a mixture of old refurbished buildings and an entirely new school building.

Although the work will be completed in phases throughout the 2013/14 academic year, the first two reception classes will be kept separate from the construction site.

The company wants to create an all-through school in Bell Lane by 2014, when six classes of 30 Year 7 pupils will start in the academy's secondary section.

Amy Baird, headteacher of the new primary, said: "We want Enfield's pupils to thrive, inside and outside the classroom.

"ARK John Keats will be dedicated to ensuring our pupils have access to an outstanding education and extra-curricular activities."

A spokeswoman from the organisation told the Advertiser: "The new school's curriculum is focused on enabling pupils to achieve the very best academic qualifications, boosting literacy and mathematics through greater focus on these areas and running activities to ensure pupils develop into confident, articulate and happy young people.

"The school will also run a range of extra-curricular activities, including a morning breakfast club from 7.45am, and daily activities."

Parents wishing to enrol their children for the September intake at John Keats Primary Academy are asked to call 020 3116 0700.

Being brought back to life: The primary school will be based on the site of the former Oasis Academy Hadley

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Coffee shop couple setting their sights further afield

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

OWNERS of an enterprising coffee shop are embarking on their latest adventure expanding their business to Somerset.

My Coffee Stop opened its doors to commuters on platform 1 of Chase Side Station on a snowy cold morning in February 2009.

Now co-founders Karen Mercer and Gunter Hollenstein are planning to expand their brand to Shepton Mallet.

This week the couple have announced they have received funding which will allow them to open another branch and offer employment opportunities to residents there.

"We originally thought we would go further up the railway line," Karen told the Advertiser, "keep it the same as we've had it before. We have been looking and looking but didn't find anywhere."

"Then we thought we should search back in Enfield somewhere round the corner but there was nothing we would be able to afford. We looked in Barnet, the whole of London and then eventually the UK."

Finally they found a quaint former sweet shop. "When we went to see it I got a really good vibe. There's lots of independent shops."

"I feel Shepton Mallet is a little hidden treasure - they don't know how to shout about themselves but they will do by the time I'm finished with them," said Karen.

As well as selling hot drinks and snacks to commuters, My Coffee Stop is a showcase for local artists, has a book swap in aid of inclusive theatre company Chickenshed and hosts regular networking social media training sessions.

The business has won several awards including North and West London Innovation Awards, Enterprise Enfield's Green Business of the Year award and Smooth Radio's top independent coffee shop in north London.

But the pair are not abandoning their original shop, and plan to split their time between Enfield and Somerset as well as hiring their first permanent members of staff.

Karen said during her search for a location she finally understood why landlords keep rents so high.

"It's better for them to keep them artificially high, because when they get someone in it's more likely they will get the money they have lost back."

"That's why we are seeing more chain stores in the high street - nothing I say to them is going to change that."

Western line: My Coffee Stop owners Gunter Hollenstein and Karen Mercer who have just opened a new store at Shepton Mallet Station in Somerset

Artists set up shop in old Blockbuster store

A NETWORK of artists have clubbed together to set up a pop-up exhibition in Southgate.

Members of the Creative Exchange organised the display in the former Blockbuster store, in Southgate Circus, within five days.

That meant it was open in time for Saturday's first-ever Southgate Festival.

The network of local artists came together to support each other and to highlight the strength of the creative industries in the borough.

They have already seen success with the open studios and arts trail in June.

Helen Lee, a watercolour artist from Muswell Hill, organised the window exhibition in the store which is owned by Transport for London.

She said: "Our members jumped at the opportunity to show in such a prestigious building in a great location."

"You have to move fast when exhibiting in a pop-up, and true to form the artists pulled together to make a great show."

"Blockbuster had been another eyesore on the high street for months and we feel we've contributed to the landscape by staging our work there and giving locals something more interesting to look at en route to the Tube and shops."

"It is an opportunity for us to show the wider public what we do and make a positive impact in the community."

The exhibits include mosaics by Julie Hinckley, Mary Marmery's hand-built Raku ceramic pots, Tami St George Hedley's glass bowls, light sculpture by Dan Maier and a variety of paintings.

Exhibitor Lorna Doyan added: "Being part of Creative Exchange gives local artists a lifeline, where we can share knowledge and experience and network with fellow creatives."

"I have been so impressed with the talent, and I'm proud to part of this burgeoning creative community."

"We are determined to put Southgate, Palmers Green and Winchmore Hill on the map as a destination for high-quality design, craft and art" added founder of the Creative Exchange Dan Maier.

The exhibition is expected to last a month and all the pieces are on sale, with details displayed beside the artwork.

The group's next event will be a designer art and craft fair in November.

Anyone interested in joining the network should email info@openstudios.uk.com

UK CYPRIOTS AND BRITISH PARLIAMENTARIANS DEMAND JUSTICE FOR CYPRUS AND AN END TO TURKEY'S OCCUPATION OF THE ISLAND

- British Cypriots, supporters of a reunited Cyprus and politicians from across the UK's political spectrum, rallied in Trafalgar Square on 14th July to condemn Turkey's 39-year old illegal military occupation of the northern part of Cyprus.
- A mass demonstration outside the Turkish Embassy was followed by a march through Central London to Trafalgar Square for the main rally.
- Peter Droussiotis, President of the National Federation of Cypriots in the UK, accompanied by his colleagues, handed in a letter of protest to the Turkish Ambassador demanding Turkey's withdrawal from Cyprus and an end to the islands' division.
- Prime Minister David Cameron was petitioned at 10 Downing Street to exert pressure on Turkey to end its occupation and work for a solution that respects Cyprus's independence, territorial integrity and sovereignty which Britain has guaranteed by international treaty.
- In his address at the Rally, Peter Droussiotis stressed that Britain can and must do more to reverse the tragic failure of the international community to hold Turkey to account.
- Keynote speaker, Cypriot Minister of Agriculture, Nicos Kouyialis, emphasised the Cypriot Governments' determination to work for a just and lasting settlement and warned that the current economic crisis in Cyprus must not be seen as part of a solution to the problem.
- The Mayors of occupied Kyrenia and Akanthou, Glafcos Kariolou and Savvas Savvides, thanked the Federation for its persistent efforts in support of the island's freedom and unity.
- Speeches by Sir Alan Meale MP (Mansfield, Lab), Charles Tannock MEP (London, Con), Simon Hughes MP (Bermondsey), Deputy Leader of the Liberal Democrats, and Matthew Offord MP (Hendon, Con) called for an end to Turkey's occupation of Cyprus's northern territory and for the issue to be pushed up the international agenda.
- Among other politicians in attendance were Theresa Villiers MP (Chipping Barnet, Con), Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, Mike Freer MP (Finchley & Golders Green, Con) and Labour GLA member Andrew Dismore..
- The Cyprus High Commission in London was represented by H.E. Alexandros Zenon, Cyprus High Commissioner, and other senior Cypriot diplomats.
- The Rally ended with a minute's silence in honour of the missing people of Cyprus and all of those who fought for freedom and democracy on the island.
- Lord Toby Harris of Haringey also met the Organisation of Relatives of Missing Cypriots UK on 9th July

Superb performances are what makes Private Lives

By Daniel O'Brien
daniel.obrien@nlhnews.co.uk

NOEL Coward's Private Lives is never going to leave you pondering the meaning of life and death, but it is the perfect play for fans of light-hearted comedy with a penchant for modernist style.

Toby Stephens and Anna Chancellor are Elyot and Amanda, a long-divorced couple miraculously reunited while honeymooning with their new bride and groom.

Immediately dormant feelings of intimacy and passion are reawakened, and they are soon fleeing together from their respective partners – Victor and Sybil – whose only crime is that they are too boring and “normal”.

The paradox of their relationship is clear almost from the off, and is the tragedy at the core of Coward's piece.

A bubbling chemistry draws Elyot and Amanda together, but is ultimately uncontrollable.

Their verbal sparring can only go on so long before it spills over into something dark and damaging.

But it is good while it lasts. The constant stream of one-liners and double entendres could feel mannered and false if it weren't for the chemistry between the two lead actors.

Up close and personal: Anna Chancellor as Amanda Prynne and Toby Stephens as Elyot Chase

Stephens is perfect as Elyot, the foppish dandy-come-psychopath who would rather brawl with his ex-wife than the rival for her affections, and hisses at his new wife that he would like to chop off her head.

Chancellor, meanwhile, is excellent as the fiercely glamorous Amanda, an early example of celebrity culture whose greatest fear is being normal and ignored.

As young, wealthy socialites the pair represent the indulgent, decadent style that makes the 1920s and 30s so enticing – not least Amanda's lavishly decorated apartment, which deservedly drew gasps and applause at the start of act two.

Private Lives is a play that could feel superficial and mannered, were it not so tightly written and expertly carried off by director Jonathan Kent and his cast.

Private Lives is at the Gielgud Theatre in Shaftesbury Avenue, central London, until September 21. Tickets cost from £29 by calling 020 7492 1548.

Another month - another Award!

Following on from the recent successes in the ESTA's at which Kings won 13 awards, and Metropolis winning Best Surveyor recently, we are delighted that we have added another Trophy to our cabinet!

At the prestigious British Mortgage Awards held at the Westminster Park Plaza Hotel, our very own Chris Bramham picked up the awards for Business Leader of the Year for Mortgage Advisers, after being shortlisted. In addition to this Karl Knipe was also shortlisted in the Business Leader - Surveyors category.

The event was attended by almost 800 people and hosted by comedian Jimmy Carr, and is seen as one of the premier award events in the Industry. Speaking after the awards, Chris said, 'I am absolutely thrilled to have won this award, and actually quite shocked. This was voted for by some real Industry giants so it is a real honour. Having said that, whilst this technically is an individual award, this is not about me its about the team of people that I work with and the great business that it is! I have been in the mortgage Industry for 25 years, but the recognition is for everyone for Kings, and comes when we have had a really good year for Awards!'

Chris was also recognised for his work within the Mortgage Intermediary sector, and for championing the role of the Intermediary.

Property tips

Replacing old, worn or outdated carpets can transform a room instantly; however pick flooring which is classic, neutral and easy to live with. If your carpets are a pale shade consider a runner in the hallway thus avoiding muddy marks being left by not so thoughtful visitors viewing your property.

Change and Challenge Mentor

Temporary (initially for 12 months)/Part time
September 2013

We are looking to recruit for this new position within our school a Change and Challenge Mentor. As a Change and Challenge Mentor, you would be part of a team working closely with students who need targeted support to overcome barriers to learning inside or outside the school. Advising, assisting and counselling identified students in setting targets and action planning to improve their personal development and academic achievement.

Edmonton County is a heavily oversubscribed school, which has a reputation for providing outstanding support for staff and students. Our wider workforce is highly valued and plays a vital role in the school's aim to be a centre for learning and achievement for all.

BOSS AIMS FOR MORE SIGNINGS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Andre-Villas Boas admits that he is still on the lookout for more new faces even though Tottenham Hotspur are closing in on their second major signing of the summer.

Having captured Brazilian international midfielder Paulinho earlier this month in a club-record deal, Spurs now look set to sign Swiss winger Nacer Chadli, who currently plays for Dutch outfit FC Twente.

A fee of around £7million has been agreed between the two clubs, and Chadli will complete his move to White Hart Lane once he has undergone a medical and personal terms have been agreed.

But Spurs are still believed to be looking to bolster their forward line – although they suffered a setback over the weekend when transfer target Christian Benteke signed a new deal with Aston Villa.

“We will continue to do our business in the market,” Villas-Boas said. “We haven’t stopped yet, for sure.”

However, the head coach is delighted that Chadli is on his way to the club and is convinced that he will prove to be a big success.

“Chadli’s a player we’ve been following for quite some time,” he said. “We managed to strike a deal in the past few days.”

“He’s a player who is extremely versatile and can play in several positions up front.

“He played with tremendous success on the left for Twente as a winger and as an attacker for Belgium. We look forward to having him on board with us.”

Meanwhile, Tottenham launched their pre-season campaign with a 1-1 draw at Swindon Town on Tuesday last week.

Determined boss: Andre-Villas Boas still wants to bolster Spurs’ squad ahead of the new season

Gareth Bale fired Spurs into an early lead, but the hosts equalised with 15 minutes remaining through Andy Williams’ deflected shot.

“We haven’t stopped training, and that’s a good thing for our physical stamina during these games,” Villas-

Boas added. “We had some good moments, but also things that we need to work on.”

“We had some good chances and the result could have been different, but overall we had positive things to take from the game.

“It was a good first show from everyone and congratulations to Swindon, they played well.”

Spurs have now headed off to Hong Kong to take part in the Barclays Asia Trophy, and face a match against Sunderland today.

Flowers on song in comfortable victory

NORTH MIDDLESEX consolidated their place at the top of Division Two of the Middlesex County Cricket League by easing to a 97-run victory at Southgate on Saturday.

Evan Flowers made an excellent 73 as North Middlesex amassed 202-9 batting first, with Ashley Sivrajah (4-67) proving the pick of the bowlers for Southgate.

Ed Bird then took control with the ball, taking 6-22 as the hosts lost their last five wickets for the addition of just 18 runs to be dismissed for 105.

Meanwhile, Hornsey continued their improved form in the top flight by condemning leaders Hampstead to a first defeat of the season.

Michael Philipson (90 not out) and Basil Akram (60) proved to be Hornsey’s match-winners with a fifth-wicket stand of 147 as they made it to 204-5 after the table-topping hosts had been dismissed for 203.

However, Highgate suffered a disappointing day in Division Three as they lost by 182 runs at home to lowly South Hampstead.

Leroy Shepherd struck an unbeaten 155 as South Hampstead amassed 317-5 batting first, and Highgate could only make 135 in reply.

And North London were beaten by 53 runs at Barnes – being dismissed for 171 in reply to the hosts’ 224-9. James Baker (5-89) and Tom Wakeford (4-55) both impressed with the ball for the beaten visitors.

Hornsey host Teddington on Saturday, while North Middlesex entertain Ickenham, North London are at home to South Hampstead and Highgate entertain Enfield.

Former British international Raynor signs for the Skolars

THE London Skolars have pulled off a major coup completing the signing of former Great Britain rugby league international Gareth Raynor.

The experienced Raynor – who made more than 200 appearances in the Super League – had been approached by a number of clubs since retiring from the professional game last year, but resisted all the attempts to lure him back into the sport until the Skolars pounced.

“I am really looking forward to coming down to London to play for Joe Mbu’s Skolars team and firmly believe I can make a difference,” he said. “I am excited to be putting my boots back on and, although it’s something I was not expecting to do ever again, the opportunity to come down to London and help Skolars push for promotion is a challenge that appealed to me greatly.

“I do understand the division the club is in and I have turned down similar offers to play in the Championship, next door to me.

“The Skolars’ management have impressed me with their ambition to grow rugby league in the south, and now I have the opportunity to make a difference.”

Skolars’ general manager Howard Kramer said: “As we move into the final six league games of the regular season it’s vital that the team keeps the momentum going, and confidence is high after four straight wins.

“Gareth has played at the highest level, and he’s very keen to bring his experience and knowhow to the team.

“With this signature, the Skolars board have demonstrated their commitment to getting the team promoted and this shows a clear statement of intent.”

However, the London Skolars endured a disappointing day on Saturday as they were beaten 42-24 by the North Wales Crusaders in the Northern Rail Bowl final in Halifax.

Erjon Dollapi, Louis Robinson, Michael Worrincy and Sam Wellings scored tries for the Skolars, with Dylan Skee converting all of them.
